

Art work dedicated to founders of the Mercy Foundation:

This familiar Portrait of Sister Venarda by acclaimed artist, Cloy Kent, is located in the elevator lobby on level 2.

Also in the lobby, across from the pastoral care department, is the weaving, River Bend III by Jan Freidman. It is dedicated to Sister Mary Alois Kessler, the first director of pastoral care.

Across from this piece and next to the Cloy Kent painting of Mother McAuley, is a unique calligraphy piece by Cheryl Jacobsen dedicated to Dick Fedderson, local businessman. Her Mission is a picture created of Mother McAuley's words including Dick's words:

“Her mission is our mission. Her compassionate objectives are ours and they direct our efforts in the present and guide our hopes for the future.”

In the surgery waiting area is a gallery of colorful screen prints by Sara Lindberg. These intricate works include, Sunflower, dedicated to Bud Houghton, of First National Bank.

In the Intensive Care Unit waiting area is the calming pastel, Reflecting Pool by Susan Coleman. It is dedicated to Chuck Dore, who spearheaded a million-dollar campaign in 1964 to expand the hospital.

A new gallery of rural artworks was created in the first level of the hospital between the chapel and the cafeteria. On the outside wall of the physician's dining room is Amish Farm, by Garth Conley. It is dedicated to Dr. Christian Schrock, a long-time Mercy physician of Amish ancestry.

Moving toward the chapel is Morning Rain, by Robert Caputo, dedicated to David Noonan, former Director of Community Relations.

Just outside the chapel is the oil, Iowa River Bend by Andrew Heineman, dedicated to WW Summerwill, of Iowa State Bank - an avid outdoorsman.

In the meditation chapel of the hospice unit is foil print and oil, Flora, by Dioland Barrera dedicated to Reverend Roy Wingate. From the meditation chapel you can see the steeples of four local churches including Gloria Dei, Reverend Wingate's parish.
